KING ARTHUR

DOWN TO THE COAST, RIDING HARD, COMES THE KING OF THULE, HOTLY PURSUED BY HIS MERCILESS ENEMIES.

WITH THE WEARY REMNANT OF HIS FOLLOWERS HE EMBARKS ON A FISHERMAN'S LUGGER.

DAWN FINDS THEM FAR OUT ON THE STORMY CHANNEL.

THEY SEEK A HARBOR ALONG THE CHALK CLIFFS OF BRITAIN.

THE HALF-SAVAGE BRITONS OPPOSE THEIR LANDING.

STORM-DRIVEN, THEY AT LAST REACH THE MOUTH OF THE THAMES RIVER, BUT HERE A BLINDING FOG SHUTS DOWN OVER THE WATER AND THEY LOSE THEIR BEARINGS.

"BREAKERS AHEAD," SHOUTS THE LOOKOUT.

THEY BEAR AWAY ON A DIFFERENT TACK, BUT AGAIN COMES THE WARNING CRY.

SUDDENLY THEY FIND THEMSELVES CAUGHT IN THE BREAKING SEAS AND ARE POUNDED ON THE TREACHEROUS SANDS.

THE KING GAINS THE SHORE WITH HIS WIFE, THE YOUNG PRINCE AND MOST OF HIS ARMED FOLLOWERS.

WHEN THE FOG LIFTS THEY FIND THE INCOMING TIDE BEHIND THEM AND HOSTILE MEN IN FRONT.

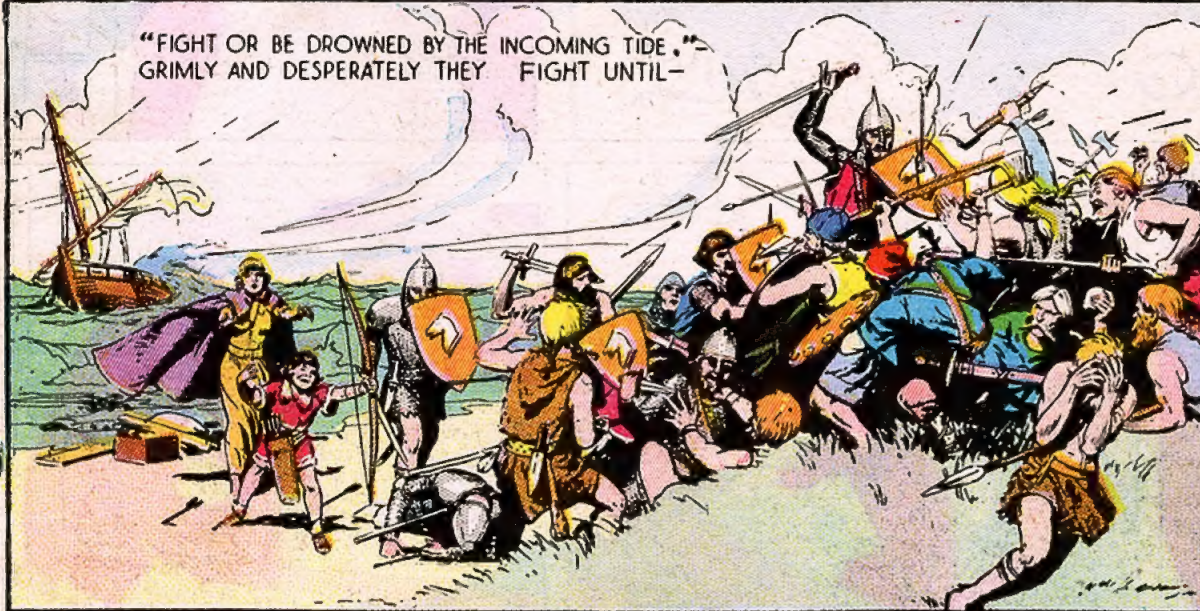

"THE SEA WE CANNOT FIGHT," SAYS THE KING GRIMLY, "BUT THERE IS DRY LAND AND FOOD BEYOND THOSE ARMED MEN," AND HIS SWORD HISSES FROM ITS SCABBARD!

"FIGHT OR BE DROWNED BY THE INCOMING TIDE."—GRIMLY AND DESPERATELY THEY FIGHT UNTIL—

THE ENEMY FINALLY BREAKS AND IS SCATTERED.

IN THEIR VILLAGE THE FUGITIVE KING AND HIS MEN SECURE FOOD AND REST FOR A FEW DAYS.

BUT BEYOND THE DUNES THE NATIVES ARE GATHERING.

SO THEY RETREAT NORTHWARD UP THE COAST OF A HOSTILE COUNTRY.

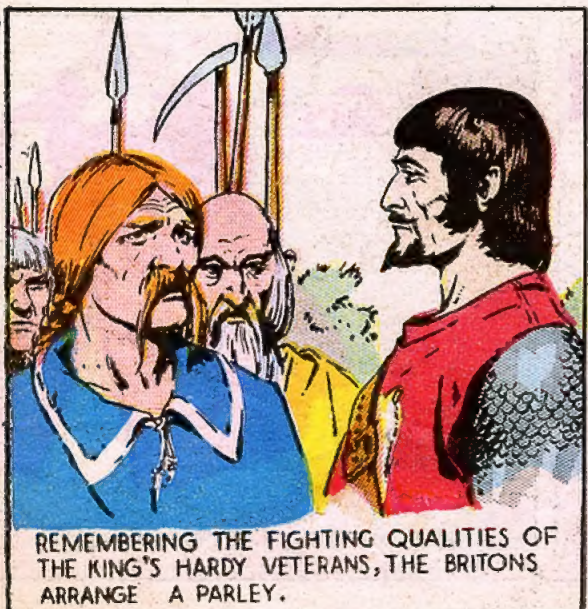

RUMOR OF THEIR COMING SPEEDS BEFORE THEM.

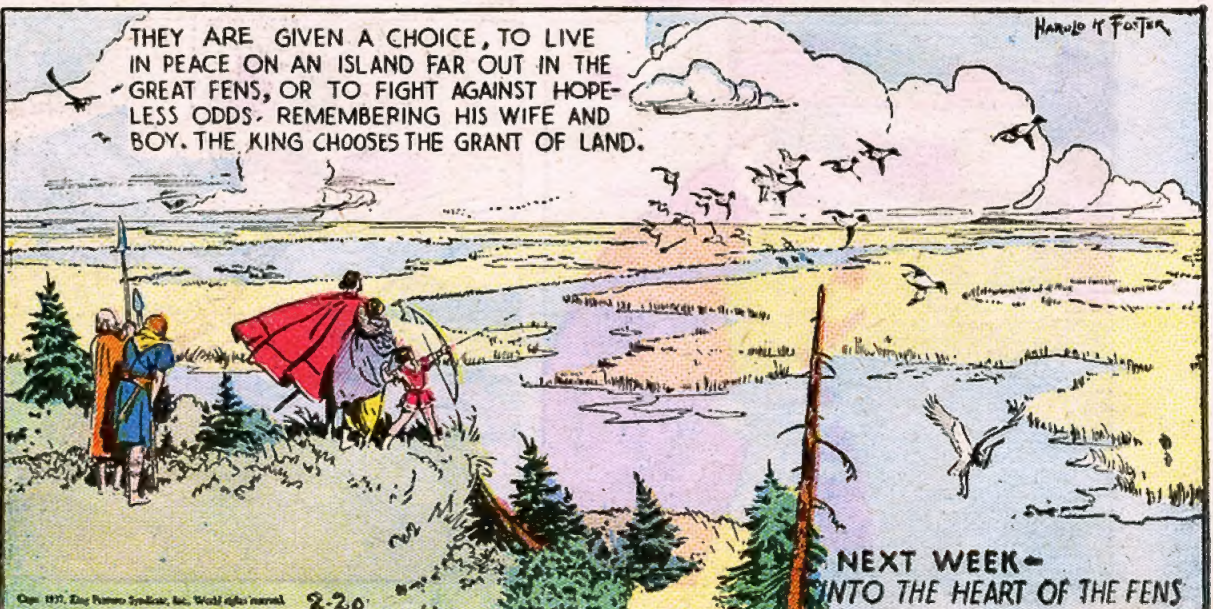

AT LAST THEY REACH THE MYSTERIOUS FEN COUNTRY AND ARE HALTED BY THE GREAT MARSHES.

BEHIND THEM THE AROUSED AND ARMED COUNTRYSIDE IS ARRAYED.

REMEMBERING THE FIGHTING QUALITIES OF THE KING'S HARDY VETERANS, THE BRITONS ARRANGE A PARLEY.

THEY ARE GIVEN A CHOICE, TO LIVE IN PEACE ON AN ISLAND FAR OUT IN THE GREAT FENS, OR TO FIGHT AGAINST HOPELESS ODDS. REMEMBERING HIS WIFE AND BOY, THE KING CHOOSES THE GRANT OF LAND.

GUIDES PREPARE TO TAKE THE EXILED KING TO HIS MYSTERIOUS ISLAND HOME.

BELLS ARE HUNG IN THE FRONT OF EACH BOAT TO WARN AWAY THE STRANGE DENIZENS OF THE FENS.

ONCE A HALF-SEEN MONSTER LUMBERS—SPLASHING AWAY THROUGH THE TALL REEDS.

AT MIDDAY THEY COME TO MORE OPEN COUNTRY WITH CHANNELS OF OPEN WATER.

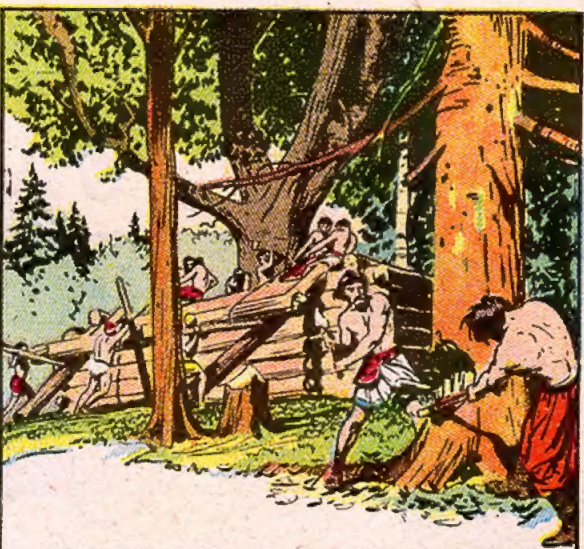

A MEAL IS COOKED OVER FIRES IN TURTLE SHELLS FILLED WITH SAND IN THE BOTTOM OF THE CANOES.

SUNDOWN FINDS THEM APPROACHING THEIR HUMMOCK OF LAND

THEIR GUIDES BUILD A HUGE FIRE FOR THEY FEAR THE STRANGE THINGS THAT MOVE THROUGH THE FENS AT NIGHT.

HURLED FROM HIS THRONE, THE KING OF THULE ESCAPES BY SEA ONLY TO BE WRECKED ON THE ENGLISH COAST. HE FINDS REFUGE IN THE MYSTERIOUS FENS MARSHES WHERE HIS ONLY SON, PRINCE VALIANT, MEETS A HALF-SAVAGE NATIVE BOY AND HIS CAREER OF ADVENTURE BEGINS.

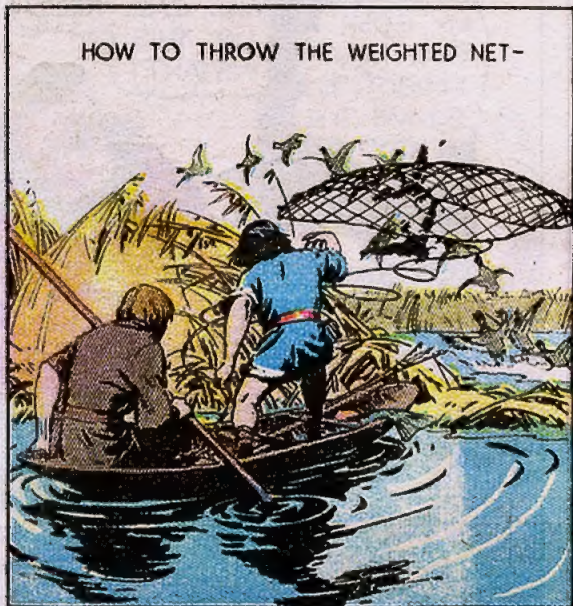

FORGOTTEN IS THE DIFFERENCE IN LANGUAGE AND BIRTH—REMEMBERED ONLY IS THE SPIRIT OF ADVENTURE.

PRINCE VAL SOON LEARNS TO USE THE FISH SPEAR AND CAPTURE THE GREAT PIKE OF THE OPEN CHANNELS.

HOW TO THROW THE WEIGHTED NET—

AND SHOOT DUCKS ON THE WING WITH FORKED ARROWS.

AS HE GROWS OLDER HE BECOMES HUNTER FOR THE EXILES AND PLENTIFULLY SUPPLIES THE LARDER.

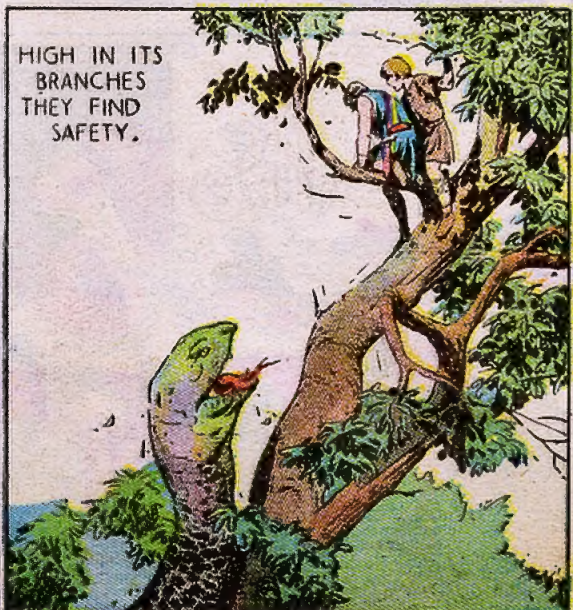

THERE COMES A TIME WHEN THE HUNTERS ARE THE HUNTED AND LIFE DEPENDS ON QUICK WORK.

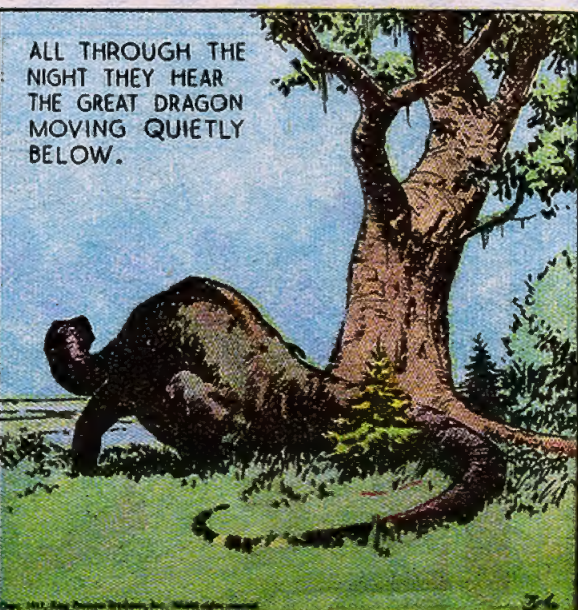

VAL'S BOW TWANGS VICIOUSLY, BUT CANNOT HALT THE MARSH LIZARD.

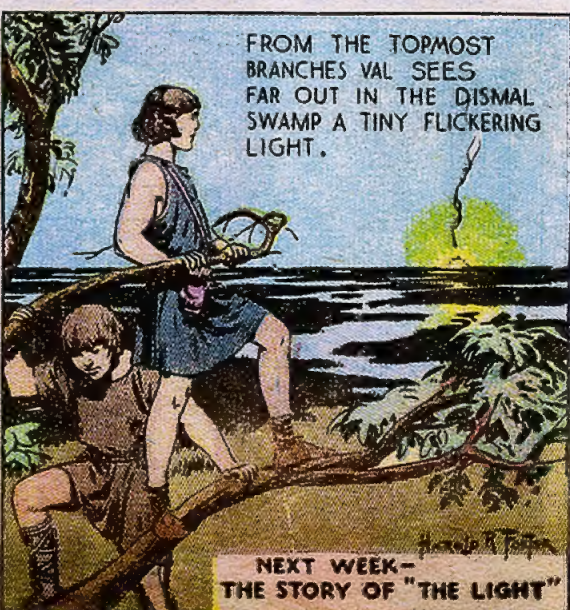

THEY SPEED TOWARD ONE OF THE FEW ISLANDS AND RACE FOR A LARGE TREE.

HIGH IN ITS BRANCHES THEY FIND SAFETY.

ALL THROUGH THE NIGHT THEY HEAR THE GREAT DRAGON MOVING QUIETLY BELOW.

FROM THE TOPMOST BRANCHES VAL SEES FAR OUT IN THE DISMAL SWAMP A TINY FLICKERING LIGHT.

THORG STAGGERS IN WHIMPERING AND THE WITCH TAKES HIS BANDAGED HEAD IN HER ARMS. "MY SON," SHE CRIES.

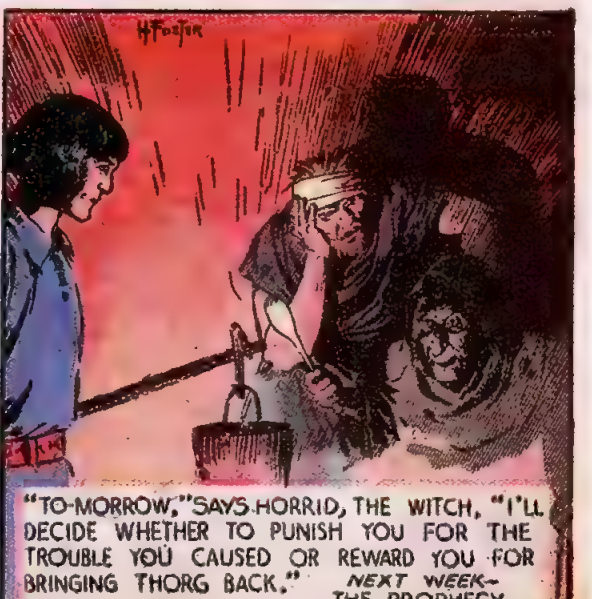

"NEARLY FOUR DAYS HAVE I WAITED FOR MY BABY TO COME HOME WITH FOOD FOR ME—YOU ARE THE CAUSE. NOW GET FOOD."

VAL GOES OUT INTO THE GATHERING DUSK, BOW IN HAND.

PRINCE VALIANT, WHILE EXPLORING THE FENS, INVADED THE DOMAIN OF HORRIT, THE WITCH, AND WAS ATTACKED BY HER SON, THE MONSTER THORG. THORG WAS TERRIBLY BEATEN AND THREE DAYS ELAPSED BEFORE VAL RETURNED HIM TO THE STARVING WITCH.

WHILE VAL IS PREPARING ENOUGH GAME TO LAST UNTIL THORG'S RECOVERY, HORRIT LIMPS UP.

"TO-NIGHT I'LL SHOW YOU YOUR FUTURE," SHE CACKLES. "THERE IS NO GREATER SORROW FOR MAN THAN TO KNOW HIS FUTURE."

"NOW, PRETTY BOY," SAYS HORRIT THAT NIGHT, "GAZE INTO THE PEAT EMBERS AND I WILL TELL YOU WHAT IS IN STORE FOR YOU."

A STRANGE HORROR COMES OVER VAL AS HE GAZES INTO THE FIRE. "ALREADY YOUR GREATEST SORROW AWAITS YOU," SHRILLS HORRIT GLEEFULLY, "NOW LOOK AND SEE WHAT ELSE WILL BEFALL."

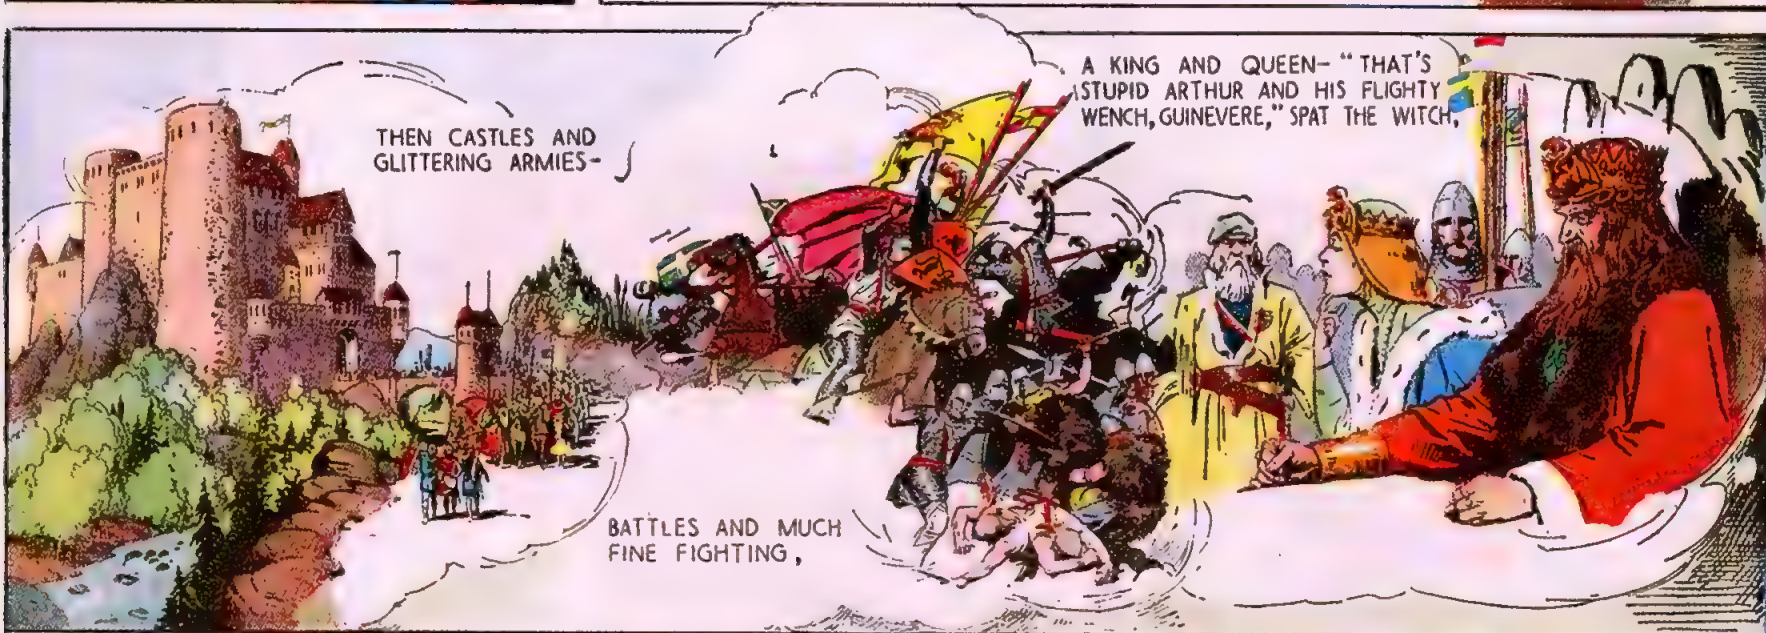

THE GLARE OF THE COALS MAKES HIM DREAMY, BUT FAINTLY AT FIRST HE SEES A WARRIOR IN FULL ARMOR.

THEN CASTLES AND GLITTERING ARMIES—

BATTLES AND MUCH FINE FIGHTING,

A KING AND QUEEN— "THAT'S STUPID ARTHUR AND HIS FLIGHTY WENCH, GUINEVERE," SPAT THE WITCH,

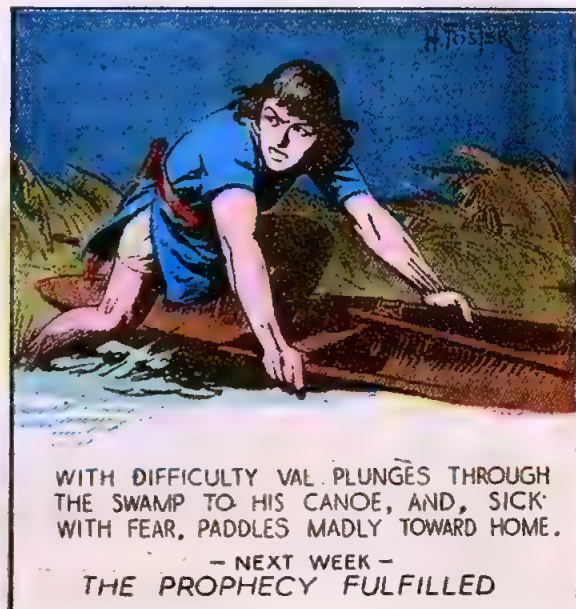

"AND YOU WILL CONFRONT THE UNICORN, THE DRAGON AND THE GRIFFON, BLACK MEN AND YELLOW. YOU WILL HAVE HIGH ADVENTURE, BUT NOWHERE DO I SEE HAPPINESS AND CONTENTMENT."

"NOW GO," SHE SCREAMS. "GO, BECAUSE YOU HAVE BROUGHT THORG BACK TO ME, BECAUSE GREAT SORROW AWAITS YOU I LET YOU GO, BUT HASTE HERE I REMEMBER WHAT YOU DID TO MY BABY AND CURSE YOU WITH A FOUL DISEASE."

WITH DIFFICULTY VAL PLUNGES THROUGH THE SWAMP TO HIS CANOE, AND, SICK WITH FEAR, PADDLES MADLY TOWARD HOME.

"WHEN YOU ADDRESS SIR LAUNCELOT, VARLET, SAY 'SIR,'" GROWLS THE KNIGHT'S SQUIRE, RIDING UP.

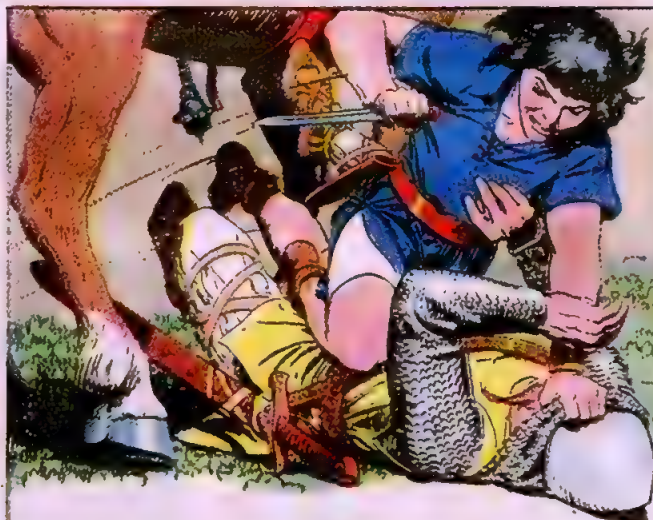

"WHEN YOU ADDRESS THE PRINCE OF THULE, KEEP QUIET," EXCLAIMS VAL HOTLY.

SIR LAUNCELOT LAUGHS, BUT THE SQUIRE SPURS FORWARD TO CUFF THE IMPUDENT YOUTH.

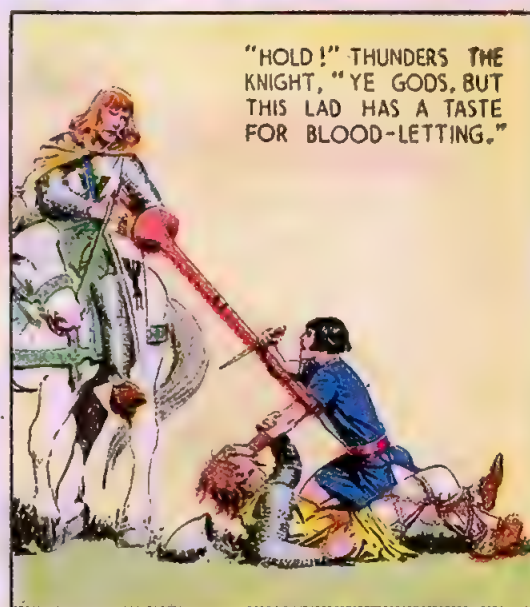

AS HE STANDS IN HIS STIRRUPS TO ADMINISTER THE BLOW, VAL HOOKS AN ELBOW UNDER HIS FOOT AND HEAVES HIM FROM HIS HORSE.

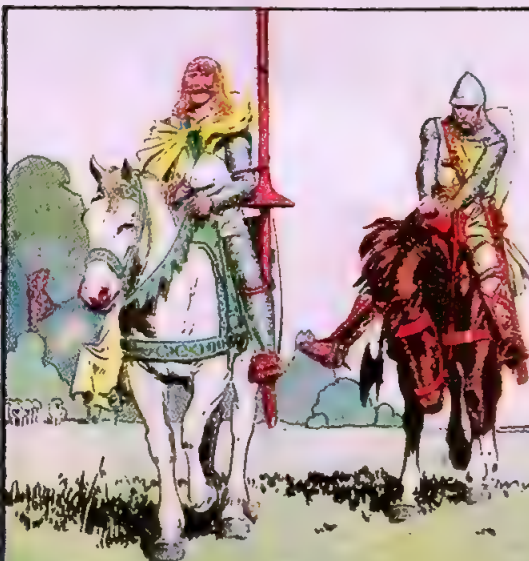

THE SQUIRE FALLS HEAVILY AND VAL IS UPON HIM LIKE A TIGER.

"HOLD!" THUNDERS THE KNIGHT, "YE GODS, BUT THIS LAD HAS A TASTE FOR BLOOD-LETTING."

HERALDS SUMMON THE WARRIORS TO ARMS!

HURRIEDLY VAL IS SENTENCED: "WHILE ALL GOOD WARRIORS ARE FIGHTING FOR THE REALM YOU SHALL REMAIN IN CAMELOT AND PRACTISE SELF-CONTROL!"

"I SHALL NEVER TOUCH WINE AGAIN!" SAYS THE HEARTBROKEN LAD. "NONSENSE," LAUGHS SIR GAWAIN, "JUST REMEMBER NEVER TO TAKE MORE THAN YOU CAN HOLD LIKE A GENTLEMAN."
